CHURCH HISTORY.

THE SECOND CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH IN ST. JOHNSBURY was organized April 7, 1825, being a colony from the First Congregational Church. Nineteen persons, six males and thirteen females, having obtained the consent of the First Church, were constituted a separate church, under the name of the Second Congregational Church in St. Johnsbury.

The Ecclesiastical Council, called on the occasion, consisted of the Rev. Leonard Worcester, of Peacham; the Rev. Mr. Mason, of Waterford; the Rev. Mr. Hollister, of Danville, and the Rev. Mr. Hall, of Concord.

A small building, formerly a store, had been moved to the lot on which the dwelling-house of David Boynton, Esq., now stands, and fitted up for a place of worship. This building was occupied thus by the church during the first two years after its organization. It was afterward removed, and is now the dwelling-house occupied by Mrs. Grennell.

In the summer and autumn of 1827 a commodious meeting-house was built on the site of the present house of worship. The house was built by subscription, with the condition that it should be the property of the church, and the pews rented for the support of the gospel ministry therein. The house was dedicated in October, 1827. It was removed in 1847, and is now the dwelling-house of Mr. J. K. Colby.

In the year 1847, the first meeting-house being inadequate to accommodate the church and congregation, the present house was built by subscription, upon the same conditions as were stipulated in regard to the first house. The grounds had been previously deeded to the deacons of the church, and their successors in office, in trust, for the use and benefit of the church.

The church established a Sabbath-school at its commencement, which has been continued, with various modifications, to the present time. At first the school was suspended during the winter, but has been kept without intermission since 1827. So early as 1827 the church voted to meet for conference and prayer on Thursday following the second Sabbath of each month. At the present time a stated meeting of the church is held on the first Monday evening of each month. A stated public conference meeting is observed on Wednesday evening of each week.

The Monthly Concert of Prayer, for the success of missions and the conversion of the world, has been uniformly observed, and also the monthly Sabbath-school concert.

In April, 1831, the church held a protracted meeting, which was signally blessed, and which resulted in the hopeful conversion of some sixty persons, who afterward became members of the church. Another protracted meeting was held in April, 1832, but with no very satisfactory results.

There have been several seasons of special religious awakening, the fruits of which are remembered with gratitude; but the greater number of admissions to the church by profession have been of persons who, having been members of the Sabbath-school, and attendants upon public worship on the Sabbath, have from time to time, when there was no special revival, been led to feel their lost condition out of Christ, and to trust in his merits for salvation. There have been but few communion seasons when there were no additions to the church.

In the record of the doings of the council for installing the Rev. James Johnson, February 8, 1827, there is the following vote: "This Council, highly approving of the examples of councils on similar occasions, and desirous of lending their aid for the suppression of the alarming sin of intemperance, unanimously voted that they would, on all such occasions, wholly dispense with the use of ardent spirits and wines."

Ten years afterward—in 1837—the subject of admitting persons who traffic in, manufacture, or use ardent spirits as a beverage, was several times brought forward and discussed, and in January, 1841, the following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That this church regards the traffic in ardent spirits as a beverage, as an immorality, and the practice of it by any of its members as a ground of church discipline."

THE THIRD CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH was organized in the East Village of St. Johnsbury, November 25, 1840; and on the same day their meeting-house, then recently built, was dedicated. This church consisted of twenty members from other churches: namely, from the Second Church, eleven; from the First Church, two; from the church in Kirby, five; from the church in Lyndon, two.

THE SOUTH CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH was organized October 16, 1851, and consisted of sixty-one members, who were dismissed for that purpose from the Second Church. The large and commodious meeting-house in the south part of the village of St. Johnsbury was built by contributions from both societies, for the use of the South Church and Congregation, with the provision that it should be the property of the church, and the pews rented for the support of the gospel ministry therein.

On the 14th of January, 1852, this house was dedicated, and on the same day the Rev. SUMNER G. CLAPP was installed as pastor of the church.

CONFESSION OF FAITH.

I. We believe in one living and true God; of infinite power, wisdom and goodness; the Maker and Preserver of all things, both visible and invisible; and that in the unity of the Godhead there are three persons, of one substance, power and eternity; the Father, the Son, and the Holy Ghost.

II. We believe that the books of the Old and New Testament are the inspired record of God's revelation of himself to mankind, and contain a complete system of faith and practice.

III. We believe that man is by nature under the dominion of the carnal mind, which is enmity against God, and therefore under the condemnation of God's holy law; from which, if any are saved, it is of God's free grace.

IV. We believe that Jesus Christ has made atonement for sin; that he is set forth as the Saviour of the world; and that whosoever believeth in him shall not come into condemnation, but is passed from death unto life.

V. We believe that the Holy Ghost, working faith in men, and thereby uniting them in one body to Christ, their Head, moveth them also to associate together in a church form, for the regular administration of Gospel ordinances, and to watch over one another in love.

VI. We believe that Baptism and the Lord's Supper are sacraments, to be used by all Christians to the end of the world.

VII. We believe that our Lord Jesus Christ shall come again in glorious majesty; that there shall be a resurrection of the dead, both of the just and of the unjust, and that all shall appear before his judgment seat; when he will give every man according as his work shall be; and whence the wicked shall go away into everlasting punishment, but the righteous into life eternal.

COVENANT.

Sensible of your guilty, condemned and lost estate in yourself [yourselves], and accepting the free offer of salvation in the Gospel, you do now, before all witnesses, give up yourself [yourselves] to God in the bonds of his covenant; humbly owning God the Father as your God and Father, Jesus Christ as your Saviour, and the Holy Ghost as your Sanctifier.

You do also join yourself [yourselves] to this church; heartily accepting it as one body in Christ, though imperfect, and recognizing its members in particular as fellow-citizens with the saints and of the household of God. You engage that you will walk orderly, waiting diligently upon the Lord in the ordinances of his house, faithfully maintaining the worship of God both in public and in private, submitting yourself [yourselves] cheerfully to the watch and discipline of this church, and watching over its members in love; that we may all come in the unity of the faith and of the knowledge of the Son of God unto a perfect man, unto the measure of the stature of the fullness of Christ.

Then doth this church receive you, and bid you a cordial welcome to its communion and fellowship. We do also now, humbly depending on the grace of God, solemnly covenant with you; severally promising to strive together with you in our prayers to God for you, and to walk with you as becometh saints, in all Christian watchfulness, brotherly kindness and charity.

The Symbols known as "the Apostles' Creed," and "the Nicene Creed," are introduced here as venerable memorials of the common faith.

I believe in God the Father Almighty, Maker of heaven and earth :

And in Jesus Christ, his only Son, our Lord ; who was conceived by the Holy Ghost, born of the Virgin Mary ; suffered under Pontius Pilate, was crucified, dead and buried ; the third day he rose from the dead ; he ascended into heaven, and sitteth on the right hand of God the Father Almighty ; from thence he shall come to judge the quick and the dead.

I believe in the Holy Ghost ; the holy Catholic Church ; the communion of Saints ; the forgiveness of sins ; the resurrection of the body, and the life everlasting. Amen.

I believe in one God, the Father Almighty, maker of heaven and earth, and of all things, visible and invisible :

And in one Lord Jesus Christ, the only begotten Son of God, begotten of his Father before all worlds ; God of God, Light of Light, very God of very God, begotten, not made, being of one substance with the Father ; by whom all things were made ; who, for us men, and for our salvation, came down from heaven, and was incarnate by the Holy Ghost of the Virgin Mary, and was made man, and was crucified also for us under Pontius Pilate. He suffered and was buried ; and the third day he rose again, according to the Scriptures, and ascended into heaven, and sitteth on the right hand of the Father. And he shall come again with glory, to judge both the quick and the dead whose kingdom shall have no end.

And I believe in the Holy Ghost, the Lord and Giver of Life, who proceedeth from the Father and the Son ; who with the Father and the Son together is worshipped and glorified, who spake by the prophets. And I believe in one Catholic and Apostolic Church. I acknowledge one Baptism for the remission of sins ; and I look for the resurrection of the dead, and the life of the world to come. Amen.

APPENDIX.

EXTRACT FROM A PAMPHLET PREPARED BY REV. LUTHER JEWETT
IN 1841.

“FIRST SETTLEMENT — FIRST CHURCH.

The charter of the town was first issued to JONATHAN ARNOLD and his associates, in the year 1786. At that time the whole was a wilderness. The next year after the charter was granted, Dr. Arnold, originally from Rhode Island, accompanied by about a dozen men, commenced the first regular settlement of the town. Most of the men were unmarried, but several brought their wives with them. Dr. Arnold was a man of superior talents; but none of the company were professors of religion; and though the town increased annually in population and wealth, yet for some time its moral and religious character was stationary or retrograde. A part of the inhabitants, however, seem to have felt as though it was not suitable to live wholly without any show of regard to religion. At that time it was customary in Vermont, as well as in other New-England States, for the towns to raise money by a tax, to defray the expense of the ministry; and at a town meeting held in March, 1794, seven years after the first settlement, the subject of hiring preaching was discussed. On the question being put, “Will the town raise money by a tax to pay for preaching the Gospel?” it was “determined in the negative.” Several attempts were made to raise money for hiring a minister in the course of the seven years next following 1794. These efforts generally, if not in every case, proved abortive, except the last. In July, 1801, the town voted to raise one hundred dollars, and appointed Joel Roberts, Barnabas Barker and Nathaniel Edson, to superintend the expenditure and to provide a place for meeting. The committee accordingly performed the service assigned them. From that time to this, whatever has been done for the support of the ministry, has been done by the voluntary association of individuals. With the increase of population, and the increasing number who were disposed to attend public worship, the want of a house for religious and town meetings was more and more felt; but difference in opinion respecting the proper location of such a house prevented the erection of one for a considerable time.

The first town meeting in which this subject was voted upon was in March, 1798. At this meeting a committee was appointed to report to the town in June following, "the most convenient place whereon said house shall be built." June came. The town met; but instead of accepting the committee's report, they voted not to build at all. Still, those desirous of a house, though defeated, were not discouraged. Through their means, the town was called together again in September following. Again the question was presented, "Will the town build a meeting-house or a town-house?" The same result followed as before. It was "determined in the negative." Four years now passed without any thing being done by the town in relation to a house. The population had increased to eight hundred. The difficulty of transacting the business of "March Meeting" and "Freeman's Meeting" was great. In September, 1802, the town met once more upon this long agitated subject. At this meeting the town voted to raise $850, (the sum supposed to be necessary to build a "Town House,") determined on its location, and appointed a committee to superintend the expenditure of the money. They were directed to build of such a size as they might have the means to do, by adding to the $850 such sums as individuals would pay for pews, to be by them occupied as their own property, except when town meetings were holden. The next year the town added $80 to the $850 before voted. The result was that in 1804 a large house was completed. For nearly twenty years this was the only meeting-house in town. Public worship was usually attended in it on the Sabbath, and, as occasion required, on other days. Those having individual rights, in consequence of aiding to defray the expense of building by the purchase of pews, were of different denominations; and each denomination was entitled to occupy it, if they chose, in proportion as each had paid for building. From several causes, however, it was more frequently occupied by Congregational preachers than by those of any other denomination. Owing to its location, chiefly, it has been but little used for public worship for several years past, but is still used for all town meetings.

In the course of the last twenty years, houses for public worship have been sufficiently multiplied. In the center of the town there are three. One was originally built by the Freewill Baptists, but was afterward purchased and enlarged, and is now occupied by the First Congregational church and society. A second in the center is occupied by the Methodists, and a third by the Universalists. On the Plain is one occupied by the Congregationalists. At the East Village is one built this year, 1840, and occupied by a third Congregational church and society, lately organized in that section of the town.

It was long before a convenient place for public worship was provided,—it was still longer before there was any organized church. An unusually small proportion of those who came here to settle, for the first ten or fifteen years, had been members of churches elsewhere; and though a few, while residing here, had become hopefully pious, yet the number of such was also small.

And the circumstances that the few church members who came from abroad were of several denominations, added to the difficulty. However, in November, 1807, more than twenty years after the settlement of the town, the way was so prepared that the First Congregational Church was organized. It consisted of nineteen members, — six males and thirteen females. About one third of these had been members of churches elsewhere. Additions, often small, were annually made for twelve years in succession, coming down to and including 1820. From that time to 1831 the additions were very few. Since 1831, more or less have been added every year; and for more than two years past no communion season has occurred without bringing in one or more. The present number of resident members is not far from ninety. For six years after its organization this church remained destitute of a pastor, but public worship was uniformly maintained on the Sabbath, sometimes with preaching and sometimes without. In the year 1815 the Rev. Pearson Thurstin was installed over them. His health soon failed; he became unable to preach, and in 1817, at his request, the pastoral relation was dissolved. For more than fifteen years next following they had no installed pastor, though most of the time they enjoyed preaching. In February, 1833, the present pastor, Rev. Josiah Morse, was ordained and set over them. Under his ministration their increase in numbers and strength has been steady, though not rapid."

NOTE. JANUARY, 1864. The "Town House," built in 1804, stood upon the hill west of the present Center Village; and being inconvenient of access, it was taken down, several years since, and re-erected in the Center Village, where for a time it was used for a town house, and is now occupied by the First Congregational Church and Society.

In 1858, the town authorized the construction of the present town hall, in connection with the new court house in the village of St. Johnsbury.

Since the date of the above named pamphlet, a convenient meeting house has been built by the Methodist Society, in the village of St. Johnsbury, and another by that society in the East Village; so that at the present time there are eight houses of public worship in the town, which are regularly occupied on the Sabbath; beside which an expensive Catholic Church has been built in the village of St. Johnsbury within the last three years.
